Welcome

Dear Community Member,

We are about to wrap up a Spring unlike any other at Mt. Hood Community College – our first term completely online. These past few months have made me truly proud and grateful to work alongside my colleagues at MHCC who have kept student success and our mission to transform lives and build communities at the forefront of their minds even through a time of great uncertainty. As I'm sure your family has also experienced, it has been a challenging time as we've worked to flatten the curve and slow the spread of COVID-19, but we are grateful the measures taken have worked to keep our communities healthy and safe, and we were happy to do our part. Thank you to everyone at the college and in our greater campus community who has made this unprecedented term successful and possible for our students.

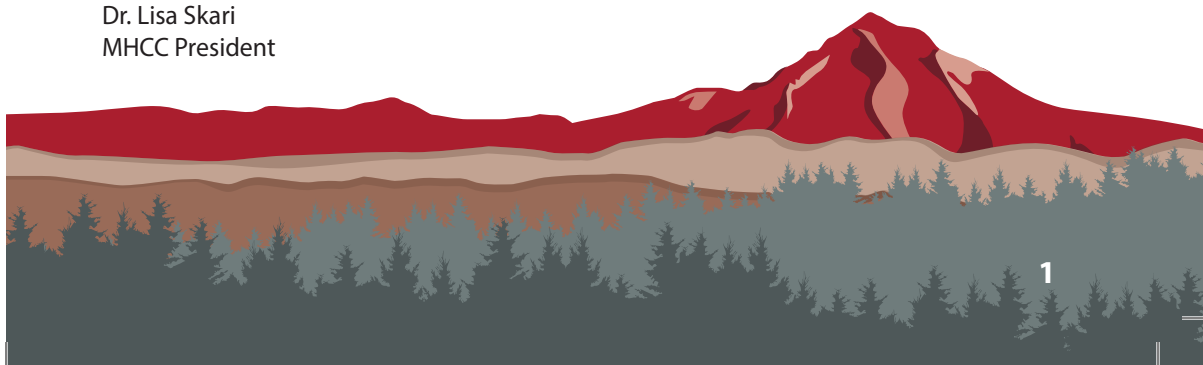

Moving forward, we are still operating under some unknowns. What we do know is that our commitment to our students remains stronger than ever before and we will continue to offer hundreds of courses and student services online this summer until we know we can all be together in person again in a safe and healthful environment. That is why this edition of College Plus Community is a little different.

Events are still required to be cancelled so we don't have those to share, and most of our face-to-face classes are still on hold, but we are still here. Our building is not who MHCC is, it is our people. And those people are continuing to serve and support our students in achieving their academic goals.

In these pages you will find ways to turn this situation of physical distancing into an opportunity to be your dream. We are here for you, even if we have to be apart.

Sincerely,

Dr. Lisa Skari
MHCC President

Don't Panic!

MHCC Respiratory Care Grads Share Experiences Treating COVID-19

Students in the Respiratory Care program at Mt. Hood Community College (MHCC) are provided with a wealth of classroom and hands-on clinical experience so they are prepared to begin caring for patients immediately after graduation.

Upon completion of the program, students work in hospitals, clinics, skilled nursing facilities and beyond. They are ready to care for all ages ranging from pediatric and neonatal patients to adults needing general and intensive care.

These students have much to learn during their time at MHCC, but there is one simple rule that they all know by heart from day one: Don't panic.

"Not only do we emphasize 'Don't Panic,' but we value and encourage critical thinking, service above self and, most importantly, providing the best cardiopulmonary critical care to the ill, injured and most vulnerable members of our community," said Carl Eckrode, director of the Respiratory Care program. "Our strength is our students, those willing to rise to a challenge and engage disease, disability and death head-on."

These lessons have been especially applicable through the COVID-19 pandemic. Stacey Clark, who graduated from the Respiratory Care program in 2017, is now a registered respiratory therapist in Hillsboro.

"They taught us the skills and knowledge to do our jobs well, but the key ingredient in accomplishing this job is not panicking," she said. "When you don't panic, you can do what needs to be done with a clear mind. During these difficult times that is extremely helpful!"

As with all health care workers on the front lines of the pandemic, those working in respiratory care have faced concerns of potentially becoming infected themselves or exposing their families and loved ones to the virus.

Information about
MHCC's Health
Professions Programs can be found at [mhcc.edu/
HealthProfessions.](https://mhcc.edu/HealthProfessions)

Joseph Greenetz, a 2016 graduate of MHCC's program, is now a respiratory care practitioner in Portland and Vancouver. He's felt well-supported with the tools and personal protective equipment he's needed through the pandemic but has been primarily concerned with keeping his family safe from exposure.

Like Stacey, he practices what he learned at MHCC: Don't panic.

"That's the first rule of respiratory therapy!" he said. "MHCC's program is accredited by the (Commission on Accreditation for Respiratory Care), super affordable and very flexible. I was able to attend classes while working, all without taking on any student loans. I had an awesome experience and highly recommend the program to anyone who asks me about getting into respiratory care."

"Don't panic" might be their mantra, but that's certainly not all that Respiratory Care students learn at MHCC. The Respiratory Care program only admits 20 students every Fall term and curriculum includes coursework in the classroom and in the clinical setting beginning the second year.

Stephanie McHugh graduated from the program in 2017 and now works as a registered respiratory therapist in Washington state. She said the hands-on experience she gained through the program combined with the expertise of her instructors prepared her to confidently treat patients of all types in a typical setting, as well as during the chaos of a pandemic.

"It has been amazing to watch (respiratory therapists) really step up to these new challenges. It has really felt great to play such a critical role supporting these patients," she said. "I am so grateful that my instructors at MHCC helped me achieve my professional goals and become passionate about respiratory care. I can never thank them enough because I truly love my career!"

Mt. Hood Community College uses the Core Transfer Map, which is a statewide agreement that contains 30 credits. It ensures community college students are able to transfer each credit from any community college to any public Oregon university, and have each credit from the curriculum be counted toward the student's degree requirements. This is not a degree or certificate but is documentation on a student's transcript that they have met a subset of common general education requirements.

Business & Industry Workforce Training

Short-term Certificate Programs

Just because things are closed for in-person instruction doesn't mean today's students need to put their plans for a new career on hold. MHCC has options for short-term certificates in health professions and other valuable programs that only take two-to-six months to complete. These will be taught in a blended environment using online learning and strict social distancing practices at our Gresham and Maywood Park campuses.

Community Education Classes

Find Your Passion in the Online Classroom

Did you know that you can learn just about anything online? Organic vegetable gardening? How to play the piano? Watercolor painting? Tap dancing? Classes on these topics and much more are being taught in the virtual classroom at MHCC this summer.

Affordable, non-credit classes are taught by MHCC's knowledgeable instructors and are excellent opportunities to stay engaged and creative. The only difference is that instead of traveling to a campus, you learn from the comfort of your own home. Never taken classes online before? No problem. Our dedicated Online Learning team is available to help you adjust to learning remotely so you can ask questions and are set up for success.

Online Student Services

Here for Our Students Even While We Are Apart

Our Student Services teams have been working diligently to convert the college's vital services to an online format, including a virtual form that students (prospective or current) can complete to have questions routed to the correct department. Below is a list of the online services MHCC now provides to students and the community along with brief descriptions and how to access each one.

STUDENT SUPPORT SERVICES REQUEST FORM

- › Go to mhcc.edu.
- › Click "Contact Student Support Services" in the gray bar at the top of the page.
- › Fill out the form and someone from the appropriate department or area at the college will assist you.

ACADEMIC ADVISING AND TRANSFER CENTER

advising.questions@mhcc.edu

Our advising and transfer center assists current and prospective students with determining which classes they should pursue and in what order. If you have a question about which classes you should take next, or need help making a plan for summer or fall, you can book an email or phone appointment.

STUDENT SERVICES HUB LIVE CHAT

mhcc.edu/Hub

MHCC Student Services Hub specialists are now available via a live chat function on select pages of our website. To access this resource, visit mhcc.edu/Hub and click on the blue chat box in the right corner of the screen. (Hub specialists are available during regular business hours only.)

ONLINE LEARNING TEAM

onlinelearning@mhcc.edu

This team supports learners who are new to the virtual classroom or experiencing technical difficulties with an online course. Students and faculty may email MHCC Online Learning for assistance with Blackboard, Zoom, Kaltura, My MHCC and more.

TUTORING

Schedules and appointments: mhcc.edu/AVID

The AVID/Learning Success Center is providing remote tutoring services for students in a variety of subjects ranging from writing and English language help, math, science and more.

LIBRARY SERVICES

mhcc.edu/Library
reference@mhcc.edu

Students can access over 339,000 e-books, 84,000 e-journals of scholarly content and over 192,000 streaming videos on the MHCC library website. Library staff are also available via email, video conference or text at 503-877-ASK1.

We Are Saints!

The COVID-19 pandemic has presented challenges that are nothing short of unprecedented. The situation has evolved rapidly and we have collectively shifted to continue to provide services to all of our students, especially those who are most vulnerable. Despite the ever-changing nature of this scenario, this fact will always remain true:

We are all in this together.

Students need the support of our campus community now more than ever. Consider making a donation to the MHCC Foundation so we can continue to help our students overcome obstacles and be their dreams.
